DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Applicant's election of Group I comprising the impact modifier IM-2 in the reply filed on February 23, 2009 is acknowledged. Because applicant did not distinctly and specifically point out the supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election has been treated as an election without traverse (MPEP § 818.03(a)).
2. Claims 3 and 4 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b) as being drawn to a nonelected group, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Election was made without traverse in the reply filed on February 23, 2009.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

3. Claims 1 and 2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In claim 1, it is unclear as to whether or not applicants are claiming the modifier before or after irradiation. That is, it is unclear if or how the text pertaining to irradiating with ultrasonic wave limits the claimed subject matter.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102/103

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(c) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claims 1 and 2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over U.S. 6,051,650 (Endo et al) or Japanese 2003-026890.

Endo et al and JP '890 disclose acrylate-based graft copolymers governed by particle sizes falling within the scope of the present claims. See particle sizes of from 150 to 600 nm per Endo et al (column 5, lines 31-40, etc.) and particle diameters of from 0.1 to 0.3 μ m per JP '890 (abstract).

The disclosure of the references are deemed to meet the requirements of the present claims when the latter are interpreted as being directed to final modifiers having 30% by mass or more of average particle sizes of 10 μ m or less. It is noted that the product of the present invention is claimed in a product-by-process format and, as such, patentability considerations must therefore be guided by the principles applicable to this claim format. The onus rests on applicants to establish that the product of the present claims is not the same as or obvious from that set forth by the references.

7. Claims 1 and 2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over U.S. 7,335,703 (Fukui).

Fukui discloses acrylate-based graft copolymers governed by particle sizes of 200 nm or falling within the scope of the present claims.

The disclosure of the reference is deemed to meet the requirements of the present claims when the latter are interpreted as being directed to final modifiers having 30% by mass or more of average particle sizes of 10 μm or less. It is noted that the product of the present invention is claimed in a product-by-process format and, as such, patentability considerations must therefore be guided by the principles applicable to this claim format. The onus rests on applicants to establish that the product of the present claims is not the same as or obvious from that set forth by the reference.
